Home Health At The Towers

The Towers holds four licenses from the South Carolina Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC): Nursing Home; Community

Residential Care Facility (the Manor); In-Home Care (HomeBridge) and Home Health. The Towers also holds a Continuing Care Retirement Community license from the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs for the residents who live independently in our Towers apartments.

Our Home Health license enables us to provide services to Towers residents who are under the care of a physician or podiatrist.

When your physician or podiatrist provides written orders for your care and treatment to help you remain in your home in lieu of admission to a hospital or extended care facility, our Home Health nurse can assist you.

Services most commonly needed, such as dressing changes after surgery, medication administration, other services physician ordered in the scope of a nurses' license and/ or physical, occupational, speech therapy are available to you by contacting Jennifer Allen, Senior Life Coordinator (328-5211), or Michelle Cookhorne, Campus Administrator (326-3114), and they will assess your Home Health needs and make the proper arrangements.

I hope this helps to clarify Home Health at The Towers. If you have more specific questions I will be happy to personally address them and I can also provide the official state regulations for further clarification if requested.

Watch for the September Windows. I will explain the services provided by HomeBridge through our In-Home Care License.

It is an honor to serve as your President and CEO and I welcome your comments.

Don't Be Scammed!

Be mindful of scam artists who attempt to obtain personal information such as Social Security numbers, birthdates, etc.

Recently a scammer pretended to be a relative who was in need of money for an emergency. It was just a ploy to get your neighbor to wire money to them!

As discussed on prior occasions, do not give any personal information over the telephone, through the mail or on the internet.

Be wary and cautious of any caller who mentions money or personal information.

If you do receive a suspicious call, hang up and dial *57 (you will hear a recording "The last call to your line has been traced.") and hang up again. By dialing *57, the call will be flagged and when you notify the proper authorities it will enable Comporium Communications and/or police to retrieve the origination number of the call.

The salad bar has become a huge hit with many of you who dine with us. It has been upgraded to include more items since I came to the Towers to better enhance your dining experience offering a larger variety of fresh vegetables and composed salads. With the exception of a few items on the salad bar, the items will change daily. This will always be the case to provide quality food, seasonably fresh items, and to keep it exciting. Please remember, however, that the salad bar is there to enhance your meal and is meant to replace a house salad. It is not meant to provide a second meal to leave the dining room, and it is not an "all you can eat" attraction. Additional meal charges will apply in the near future for those residents who prefer to take their salad bar items home, unless the entire meal is carry out.

Dessert choices have never been better at The Towers! With the purchase of the new dessert cart by your very own Resident Association, we have been able to provide a multitude of dessert choices daily. This has been well received by you and your guests. The staff enjoys being creative with these items, which helps make their day a bit easier as well. I have formulated a well-rounded guide for them to use to produce your desserts that consists of fresh baked cookies, specialty ice cream flavors, crème pies, fruit pies, cakes and more. Just so you know, almost all of the fruit pies and crème pies are "No Sugar Added," and the whipped topping that we use is "Sugar Free." There are exceptions due to availability of products, so if this is a concern of yours, ask your server about certain products.

Serving the Servers

Last month Tower residents had the opportunity to "Serve the Servers" as a fun way to thank Dining Services staff for the awesome job they do everyday. Jean McMath, Imogene Blackmon, Dorothy Kerr, Fay Reynolds and Betty Worrell worked on the serving line.

Coffee Time

We love our coffee in the morning to get us started...along with whatever we eat for breakfast, but for many of us coffee is what we really depend on to wake us and trigger our ability to communicate and to kick-start our day.

Where does our coffee come from? The logistics are incredible. How complicated is it to get a coffee bean from a tree to thee? Let's make a comparison.

Since I was in the 8th Air Force in Europe during World War II, let's look at the logistics of a bomb raid. Try to imagine the planning, scheduling and preparing for a 1400 Bomber raid from England to Berlin with 800 fighters flying escort — consuming 3,500,000 gallons of aviation fuel, expending 250,000 rounds of 50 caliber ammunition, dropping 3,300 tons of bombs.

Now, let's look at the effort required to place that cup of coffee in your hands. Buckle your recliner and take a big gulp of your liquid caffeine.

The French roast you get at Costco is a blend of beans from South America, Africa and Asia. Each component is shipped in a container vessel up to 11,000 miles in 132 pound loosely woven sacks of raw, green coffee beans, some across the Pacific, some through the Suez, some through the Panama canal. The raw beans then travel 2,226 miles by truck to the world's largest blending and roasting plants. The beans are then sealed in their special bags and travel another 2,773 miles to Costco depot in verb

California, from which the coffee is trucked to your local Costco store. Now we need a coffeemaker. So the one we buy is made in Germany and it travels another 15,700 miles to your kitchen. Now we could discuss the path of the water, the mileage on your car to your grocery store, and on and on.

The logistics involved in one day of global goods movement dwarfs the Normandy invasion and certainly that of a combat bombing mission in World War II.

Dang! Putting that together wore me out. I think I need a cup of strong black coffee!

Meet Your Neighbor

Almost every afternoon Margaret Hausman, Apt. 324, leaves the Towers and drives to her farm in Chester. There she tends the 25 head of cattle that are raised on her family farm. She works with the herd and drives about the spread in her red four wheel drive Toyota pickup. Margaret was born in the farmhouse built by her daddy. The 500 acre farm was established in 1820 by her grandfather, Hamilton McCandless, a Scotch Irish immigrant from Belfast, Ireland. When Margaret was growing up 150 acres were in cotton and worked by a handful of sharecropper families that lived on the farm. Mules provided much of the power, while the families planted the cotton in the Spring, chopped and weeded all Summer and handpicked the bolls in October and November. There were over 25 mules that lived on the farm. They hauled the wagons that took the cotton to the gin for processing and eventual sale. The gin was operated by the father of Curwood Chappell, an outspoken legend in local politics until his recent retirement from the York County Council.

Tragedy struck the family in 1934 when Margaret's father suddenly passed away when she was 5 years old. An only child, her father left her the ownership of the farm. She and her mother operated the farm, tended a larger kitchen garden, and sold timber off a large tract that was planted in pine. The cotton operation soon became too difficult for them to manage and was leased to other farmers in the area. Steve Boyd of Boyd Farms, famous for their farm market in McConnells, currently leases the acreage and raises cotton on the farm.

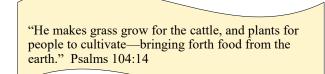

> Her situation changed when a widower from Pennsylvania, Correll Hausman, came down to Chester to visit a relative that owned a farm near Margaret's. They met, fell in love and he remained with her on the farm until his death. Margaret did take some time away from the farming to attend Winthrop College, graduating as a Biology and Chemistry major. She then worked at Sandoz Corporation, a manufacturer of textile chemicals, located in Charlotte, for three and a half years before returning to the farm.

Today, besides the beef cattle and one bull, she works with a timber specialist in managing the large pine forest on the farm. Harvested trees go to the Resolute, formerly Bowater, Paper plant or the Boise Cascade plywood plant. There was a time that Margaret herself replanted the harvested land with pine seedlings. (Very hard work she stated.)

Margaret moved to the Towers this past Spring after some health issues caused her to slow down a bit. She is very happy living here as long as she can get away most days and visit with her cattle.

When our innovative Chef Rick announces a Special Saturday Breakfast, actually a SPECTACULAR BREAKFAST awaits. He has indicated that he enjoys offering more elaborate presentations on occasion, and Westminster Towers diners have responded enthusiastically. Some menus for future Special Saturday Breakfasts include creative menus with Mediterranean or Southwestern themes, for example. Look for Special Breakfasts on our schedule on the second Saturday of each month.

How did the idea for such breakfasts originate? Chef Rick believes the idea grew years ago from expanded continental breakfasts when groups of people needed more substantial meals with greater variety as their lifestyles evolved.

TALKING ABOUT DEATH

Some men talk about death, but God talks about death also.

Some men say death is the ultimate unknown, but God in Christ has made it known.

Some men say we walk through the "valley of death" alone, but God says that He walks with us.

Some men say death is the end of life, but God says death is the beginning of life.

Some men say death is defeat, but God says that death is victory.

Some men say that death makes us idle, but God says that death makes us ideal.

Some men say the dead sleep, but God says the dead are alive in Him.

Some men say the dead see no more, but God says the dead see Him as He really is.

Some men say the dead are unfortunate, but God says the dead are Blessed.

Men only talk about death, but it is God through Christ who has done something about it for you and me, my friend in Christ.
